REV. MR. WALKER'S TEMPERANCE SERMON.—
The Sermon for preaching which Rev Charles Walker was recently turned out of his pulpit at Brattleboro, Vt., has produced a strong and healthy excitement in that Stata, or, perhaps it would be more correct to say that such excitement has been caused by the conduct of those who could not tolerate his bold and faithful exposure of their sin and shame. Behold how Selfishness and Cupidity have in this case performed the ingenious exploit of biting off their own noses! If the panderers to Intemperance had been wise enough in their generation to keep quiet, the Discourse which so excited their indignation would in all probability have produced, commandatively, little effect, but their foolish bluster comparatively, little effect; but their foolish bluster and integrance have given it wings, and, armed in the same of the pannel state of the pann

GOOD NEWS AND TRUE -Last evening at dark, YERRINTON : GOOD NEWS AND TRUE — Last evening at dark, there were five feet water in the channel and rising rapidly; by Monday we expect not less than seven feet. As we predicted some days since, navigation for the larger class of boats with full loads, will be resumed on Saturday. The village on the way called Wheeling, had better look out, or we will send a flood there this will satirely wash that intle place away.

PURE BEARS' OIL.

THE ONLY BEAUTIFIER AND PRESERVER OF THE HAIR—
The oldest writers on the subject of the Hair have one and all alladed to the properties contained in genuine Bears' Grease, as a preservative and beantifier of "Nature's covering for the head" Hippocrates, the most ancient medical writer upon this subject, says in his "Trestise on the parts of the Human Booy," that "the fat of the Ursus (Bear) is very nutritive in starting and preserving the roots of the hair of adults, when premature baidness occurs. The inner memoranes of the float of the bear cearest the skin, are covered with a shining fat which forms the source from whence spring and originate the roots of the hair that covers them so profusely. This is a law of Nature, and it follows that the oil produced from the fat of this animal is very useful to the baman race in leading to the recovery of the hair when prematurely lost."

Sorely no greater proof can be adduced as to the value of genuine Bears' Oil for the hair. For years the pure article
